The Results That Followed Well-Digging in Texas.

Joseph Mulhation Makes Another Wonderful Discovery-Throwing Red Balls of Fire from the Bowels of the Earth.

[Cisco (Tex.) Cor. Dalias Herald.] The citizens of our quiet little city are all throws into a great state of wonderment, and the question in every one's mouth is, "What is it?" To give a proper description to the readers of the Herald your correspondent is not able, and as for technical terms, a more scientific pen than mine will have to take up the work to gratify a scientific world and give the causes which lead to this wonderful vomit from mother earth. It will have to suffice for me, therefore, to give an account of that which has led to the discovery of this wonderful furnace that is now throwing out from the bowels of the earth far into the beavens, red bells of fire.

About two mouths ago our enterprising townsman, A. G. Epplin, undertook to bore for water in the rear of his place of business. He bored down a four-inch hole some sixty feet, and finding good indications of water, he concluded he would sink a well of regulation size. He accordingly engaged men and set them at work, and told them to prosecute the work downward until they found plenty of water, even should they have to invade the Kingdom of China. Accordingly, each day found the men at work, without any interruption until last Thursday, when the late rains interfered with them. This morning the work was again resumed. As the work progressed nothing of a very peculiar nature was observed in the different stratas of clay, sand and rock that were passed through. At a depth of about five feet the workmen st uck a strata of limestone which, by blasting, they got through in thirty-six feet. At this depth (forty-feet) they struck a rather curious formation, which partakes of the nature of a concrete, or rather of a conglomeration of pebbles, shells and clay, cemented together by some internal furnace. This was got through after blasting some twenty feet. The next formation reached, and the one in which the men were working at the time of the bursting of the crater, is a kind of a soapstone of a beautiful pink color. The stone is soft and easily cut, but as soon as exposed to the air and sun it becomes quite ha d and partakes of about the substance of marble, and is capable of a fine glossy polish. A ledge of five feet of this formation was gone through when the last blast was made. Your correspondent thinks if it did not bring the well-borers to China, it brought them close in the neighborhood of Lambus.

After the last blast was touched off, which was about 5:30 o'clock this evening, a loud, roaring noise followed the echo of the blast, which was heard for miles. So invited. Ecles, ii. I. B.

Bible study at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-night at 720 o'clock, led by Rev. P. Moerdyk. All are invited. Ecles, ii. I. B. great, indeed, was this that vibration after vibration followed, that houses in the vicinity of the well shook, and everything seemed to shake, earthquake-like; chickens that had gone to roost on adjoining trees left their roosts; housewives who were preparing the evening meal ran to the doors; men in their workshops took to the street; stores were deserted; dogs barked; horses dilated their nostrils and seemed restless; everything endowed with reason seemed terrified and awe-stricken. The roaring sound abates not in the least. People are this well great red balls of some sort of substance are thrown far up into the heavens until lost sight of. What becomes of them no one can tell, as none have yet been found or seen to fall. These balls, at regular intervals of ten minutes, illuminate the heavens for miles around. The roaring from the well only stops as the balls are emitted. The balls when passing through the air, look like sky-rockets, only that they do not burst, but pass right on out of sight. It is hard to estimate their size, but I should judge they are as large as twenty-pound cannon

What scientific men we have here are at a loss to account for this wonderful furnace, which is located near Cisco. Drs. Stout, Vance, Mancile, Fisher and Prof. McConnell concur in the belief that a crater has been tapped. If such is the case a volcanic cruption has been avoided, perhaps, and we have been saved a dreadful calamity by the boring of a well.

The town is grandly illuminated; the roaring still keeps on. The people are frantic; some are crying, others are praying. The streets are crowded with country people. Nearly every one asks the question: "What is it?" and your humble servant is waiting for developments.

The Prize Boy for Had Luck.

[Pottsville (Pa.) Chroniele.1 Mrs. Mulvey, residing near Locust Summit has a boy, aged about twelve years, who answers to the cognomen of Patsey. He is the sorrow of her heart. Two weeks ago yesterday he was struck by a base-ball bat on the nose and that useful member now resembles a Mexican saddle. While he was getting over it he shot himself in the foot while monkeying with his father's gun. They put Patsey in his little bed and started to mine the shot out of his foot. On last Thursday Mrs. Mulvey was tired of nursing and watching the kid and went to bed, leaving her false teeth on the bureau Patsey couldn't esist the temptation to try and adapt the artificial grinders to his mouth, which, by the way, is capable of receiving a base-ball. But the grinders wouldn't adapt, or rather Patsey got their storn end in first and Mrs. Mulvey was awakened from her slumbers by half suffocated yells from her offspring. It took the efforts of a doctor to bring the had boy around. On Saturday he scalded bimself by spilling over a kettle of boiling water that stood on the kitchen stove.

British Rule in Cyprus.

REV. E. VANDERVRIES.

Patterson, N. J., Feb. II, 1884.

Muskegen, Mich.

Mr. N. G. Vanderlinde:—We have used your Maric Oil with great satisfaction. One of our children was taken sick with (so-called) diphtheria. Of course we employed a doctor, but the child grew worse every day. One morning, the doctor called with four more of his profession; and consulted. If the child would be alive in the appropriate they were to open the child's throat and and consulted. If the child would be alive in the evening they were to open the child's throat and cut the phiegm out. This I did not approve of, but as there was no hope of the child's recovery. I consented. Finally our neighbor, Mrs. F. Vanderwerp, called with a bottle of your Magic Oil, and asked if we would use it—it would cost us nothing. We gave the child three or five drops internally every hour, and poulticed the soles of its feet with omnon, and bathed its throat well with Magic Oil, and when the doctor came in the evening he wanted to know what we had given the child, as it breathed so much easier. I told him we used Van's Magic Oil. He said keep right on using it as that was better than he could do. I have thanked Mrs. Vanderwerp a thousand times for her kinsiness, and I sincerely thank you for your valuable medicine. Yours truly,

MRs. A. D. PAIN.

Muskegon.—I would say, I have known the effects of Van's Magic Oil, in domestic practice, always with good effects, never with bad effects. Have prescribed it in my practice; find it a very good and sate medicine.
